

Alabama on hot seat in national opioid litigation talks

Updated Aug 16;
Posted Aug 16

Alabama Attorney General Steve Marshall speaks to the Alabama Opioid Overdose and Addiction Council in Montgomery. (Mike Cason/mcason@al.com)

By Lawrence Specker, lspecker@al.com

Some people would really like to see Alabama thrown out of court proceedings that could lead to a national settlement on opioids. But Alabama also has its backers, including the attorneys general of 31 states and the District of Columbia.

Use of and/or registration on any portion of this site constitutes acceptance of our User Agreement (updated 5/25/18) and Privacy Policy and Cookie Statement (updated 5/25/18).

© 2018 Advance Local Media LLC. All rights reserved (About Us).

The material on this site may not be reproduced, distributed, transmitted, cached or otherwise used, except with the prior written permission of Advance Local.

Community Rules apply to all content you upload or otherwise submit to this site.

Your California Privacy Rights

▶ Ad Choices

