The Healthy Minds Network was notified on Jan. 5 by SAMHSA's GAINS Center for Behavioral Health and Justice Transformation that Montgomery County and the Healthy Minds Network had been selected to receive one of the 2016 Sequential Intercept Mapping workshops.

Matthew Robbins, Project Assistant, Policy Research Associates, Inc. in Albany, N.Y., stated, "This year's solicitation was especially competitive — we received 75 applications for just five awards."

Linnea Conely, a consultant at SummaSource at Auburn Montgomery, wrote the grant and has been the lead on this project on behalf of the River Region Healthy Minds Network. She states, "Our team came together quickly to apply for this grant; what we learn from the workshop in Montgomery County will be duplicated in

Lynn Beshear, executive director of Envision 2020, states, "This award is further proof of the tremendous value of setting aside differences to focus on common goals. Our selection is both affirming and energizing, and those who participated in the work to win this grant are to be congratulated for their commitment and vision for a better future in the River Region."
